Distillation is the process of separating the components or substances from a liquid mixture by using selective boiling and condensation. Distillation may result in essentially complete separation (nearly pure components), or it may be a partial separation that increases the concentration of selected components in the mixture.

Desalination is a process that takes away mineral components from saline water. More generally, desalination refers to the removal of salts and minerals from a target substance, as in soil desalination, which is an issue for agriculture. Saltwater is desalinated to produce water suitable for human consumption or irrigation. One by-product of desalination is salt.

Global warming and climate change concerns have triggered global efforts to reduce the concentration of atmospheric carbon dioxide (CO<sub>2</sub>). Carbon dioxide capture and storage (CCS) is considered a crucial strategy for meeting CO<sub>2</sub> emission reduction targets. In this paper, various aspects of CCS are reviewed and discussed including the state of the art technologies for CO<sub>2</sub> capture, separation ...
