In mathematics, economics, and computer science, the stable marriage problem (also stable matching problem or SMP) is the problem of finding a stable matching between two equally sized sets of elements given an ordering of preferences for each element. A matching is a mapping from the elements of one set to the elements of the other set. A matching is not stable if:

This note concentrates on the design of algorithms and the rigorous analysis of their efficiency. Topics covered includes: the basic definitions of algorithmic complexity, basic tools such as dynamic programming, sorting, searching, and selection; advanced data structures and their applications, graph algorithms and searching techniques such as minimum spanning trees, depth-first search ...

Depth-first search (DFS) is an algorithm for traversing or searching tree or graph data structures. The algorithm starts at the root node (selecting some arbitrary node as the root node in the case of a graph) and explores as far as possible along each branch before backtracking.. A version of depth-first search was investigated in the 19th century by French mathematician Charles Pierre ...

Description. L'algorithme de Bellman-Ford utilise le principe de la programmation dynamique (il est traité dans le chapitre portant sur la programmation dynamique dans certains livres d'algorithmique [2]). On décrit ici un algorithme qui retourne les distances d'un sommet source donné à tous les autres sommets.
