Michael Todaro - Wikipedia

Development economics is a branch of economics which deals with economic aspects of the development process in low income countries. Its focus is not only on methods of promoting economic development, economic growth and structural change but also on improving the potential for the mass of the population, for example, through health, education and workplace conditions, whether through public ...

This paper looks at adaptation to climate change from the point of view of (poor) households. Since the development literature has firmly established the role of weather risk as a source of income volatility for the poor, and climate change is expected to increase this risk, we review the range of risk-coping mechanisms available to poorer households, with a focus on possible barriers to ...

A striking aspect of the distribution of “potentially available cropland” is that, from a regional perspective, much of Africa’s unutilized arable land is found in just a few countries (Chamberlin et al., 2014, Deininger et al., 2011). Depending upon the definitions and assumptions used, as much as 90% of SSA’s unutilized arable land is located in just 8 countries ().
